Investing in different assets

Academics give their take on what asset allocation strategy young investors should adopt. MINDY TAN reports

It is one of the most important decisions an investor can make, yet one of the most difficult strategies to plan. Young investors, especially those just starting out, must make every effort to balance risk and reward by incorporating every portfolio’s assets, in a sustainable and safe way. Some asset classes are more volatile than others, and a well-diversified international equity portfolio, for example, may provide higher returns than other asset classes. However, young investors should allocate 100 per cent of their retirement funds in equity, stocks to provide high returns of long-term equity investment strategies and expose them to the higher risks and returns of long-term equity investments.

For example, in general, the returns on stocks and real estate are examples of popular and popular. Some asset classes are more volatile than others, and the medium- to long-term investment horizon. Younger investors should allocate 100 per cent of their retirement funds in equities. In this issue, we provide you with a variety of insights from experts in academia.

As in all aspects of personal finance, you have to be patient and diligent. The idea is not all asset classes are created equal. The returns on stocks and real estate are examples of popular and popular. Some asset classes are more volatile than others, and the medium- to long-term investment horizon. Younger investors should allocate 100 per cent of their retirement funds in equities. In this issue, we provide you with a variety of insights from experts in academia.

As in all aspects of personal finance, you have to be patient and diligent. The idea is not all asset classes are created equal. The returns on stocks and real estate are examples of popular and popular. Some asset classes are more volatile than others, and the medium- to long-term investment horizon. Younger investors should allocate 100 per cent of their retirement funds in equities. In this issue, we provide you with a variety of insights from experts in academia.

As in all aspects of personal finance, you have to be patient and diligent. The idea is not all asset classes are created equal. The returns on stocks and real estate are examples of popular and popular. Some asset classes are more volatile than others, and the medium- to long-term investment horizon. Younger investors should allocate 100 per cent of their retirement funds in equities. In this issue, we provide you with a variety of insights from experts in academia.

As in all aspects of personal finance, you have to be patient and diligent. The idea is not all asset classes are created equal. The returns on stocks and real estate are examples of popular and popular. Some asset classes are more volatile than others, and the medium- to long-term investment horizon. Younger investors should allocate 100 per cent of their retirement funds in equities. In this issue, we provide you with a variety of insights from experts in academia.

As in all aspects of personal finance, you have to be patient and diligent. The idea is not all asset classes are created equal. The returns on stocks and real estate are examples of popular and popular. Some asset classes are more volatile than others, and the medium- to long-term investment horizon. Younger investors should allocate 100 per cent of their retirement funds in equities. In this issue, we provide you with a variety of insights from experts in academia.

As in all aspects of personal finance, you have to be patient and diligent. The idea is not all asset classes are created equal. The returns on stocks and real estate are examples of popular and popular. Some asset classes are more volatile than others, and the medium- to long-term investment horizon. Younger investors should allocate 100 per cent of their retirement funds in equities. In this issue, we provide you with a variety of insights from experts in academia.

As in all aspects of personal finance, you have to be patient and diligent. The idea is not all asset classes are created equal. The returns on stocks and real estate are examples of popular and popular. Some asset classes are more volatile than others, and the medium- to long-term investment horizon. Younger investors should allocate 100 per cent of their retirement funds in equities. In this issue, we provide you with a variety of insights from experts in academia.

As in all aspects of personal finance, you have to be patient and diligent. The idea is not all asset classes are created equal. The returns on stocks and real estate are examples of popular and popular. Some asset classes are more volatile than others, and the medium- to long-term investment horizon. Younger investors should allocate 100 per cent of their retirement funds in equities. In this issue, we provide you with a variety of insights from experts in academia.

As in all aspects of personal finance, you have to be patient and diligent. The idea is not all asset classes are created equal. The returns on stocks and real estate are examples of popular and popular. Some asset classes are more volatile than others, and the medium- to long-term investment horizon. Younger investors should allocate 100 per cent of their retirement funds in equities. In this issue, we provide you with a variety of insights from experts in academia.

As in all aspects of personal finance, you have to be patient and diligent. The idea is not all asset classes are created equal. The returns on stocks and real estate are examples of popular and popular. Some asset classes are more volatile than others, and the medium- to long-term investment horizon. Younger investors should allocate 100 per cent of their retirement funds in equities. In this issue, we provide you with a variety of insights from experts in academia.

As in all aspects of personal finance, you have to be patient and diligent. The idea is not all asset classes are created equal. The returns on stocks and real estate are examples of popular and popular. Some asset classes are more volatile than others, and the medium- to long-term investment horizon. Younger investors should allocate 100 per cent of their retirement funds in equities. In this issue, we provide you with a variety of insights from experts in academia.

As in all aspects of personal finance, you have to be patient and diligent. The idea is not all asset classes are created equal. The returns on stocks and real estate are examples of popular and popular. Some asset classes are more volatile than others, and the medium- to long-term investment horizon. Younger investors should allocate 100 per cent of their retirement funds in equities. In this issue, we provide you with a variety of insights from experts in academia.

As in all aspects of personal finance, you have to be patient and diligent. The idea is not all asset classes are created equal. The returns on stocks and real estate are examples of popular and popular. Some asset classes are more volatile than others, and the medium- to long-term investment horizon. Younger investors should allocate 100 per cent of their retirement funds in equities. In this issue, we provide you with a variety of insights from experts in academia.

As in all aspects of personal finance, you have to be patient and diligent. The idea is not all asset classes are created equal. The returns on stocks and real estate are examples of popular and popular. Some asset classes are more volatile than others, and the medium- to long-term investment horizon. Younger investors should allocate 100 per cent of their retirement funds in equities. In this issue, we provide you with a variety of insights from experts in academia.

As in all aspects of personal finance, you have to be patient and diligent. The idea is not all asset classes are created equal. The returns on stocks and real estate are examples of popular and popular. Some asset classes are more volatile than others, and the medium- to long-term investment horizon. Younger investors should allocate 100 per cent of their retirement funds in equities. In this issue, we provide you with a variety of insights from experts in academia.

As in all aspects of personal finance, you have to be patient and diligent. The idea is not all asset classes are created equal. The returns on stocks and real estate are examples of popular and popular. Some asset classes are more volatile than others, and the medium- to long-term investment horizon. Younger investors should allocate 100 per cent of their retirement funds in equities. In this issue, we provide you with a variety of insights from experts in academia.